

By the Quene.

89
The Quenes Maiestie vnderstandeth, that where she hath geuen order, that all her louing subiectes to whom she oweth any money vpon lone, shoulde be fully and spedily payde: certayne persons intending vnduely to seeke a gayne herein. haue of late sought to redeme into theyr handes, a number of priue Seales, which were deliuered to the sayde creditours for assurance of repayment, with condition to pay to them lesse portions, then ought and shalbe payde by her Maiestie to the sayde creditours. which abuse, her Maiestie so muche misliketh, as a thyng tending in some part to the discredite of her payment, and in some other, to damnishe such persons, as her Maiestie thinketh worthy, not onely of theyr money, but of her thanks: that her expresse commaundement and will is, that if any person may any wise be knowen, that may be herewith charged, the partie so offending, shall not onely make full payment to the creditours, but shalbe furder punished, vntill hee haue made satisfaction for his offence, against the honour and credite of her Maiestie.

Proven at S. James the xi. day of Nouember, the sixt yere of her Maiesties raigne.

God saue the Quene.

 Imprinted at London in Powles

Churchyard, by Richarde fugge and John Cawood,
Printers to the Quenes Maiestie.

¶ Cum privilegio Regis Maiestatis.